

BUILDING A RESILIENT CYBERSECURITY CULTURE

Confident security pros tell us

GOOD SECURITY STARTS AT THE TOP...

97% say top management understands the importance of strong cybersecurity

96% say their policies align with their board of directors' cybersecurity strategy

86%

employ a Chief Information Security Officer (CISO)

Who does the CISO work for?

Reports to CEO – 43%

Reports to CIO – 35%

Reports to Board of Directors – 14%

Reports to COO, CFO or another C-level – 7%

How do you build a strong cybersecurity team?

Offer training and promoting from within – 70%

Hire certified security professionals – 70%

Draft clear job descriptions – 52%

What makes a good team member?

Skill and knowledge with our technology – 72%

Knowledge of security best practices – 65%

Understanding of organization's processes, data flows and controls – 63%

Strong cybersecurity teams stick together

Average tenure of 3+ years – 79%

Average tenure of 5+ years – 37%

Why so confident?

58% Have strong risk management policy

45% Have been tested by real threat actors and responded well

44% Have not been breached

40% Have not had a significant malware outbreak

36% Know the attacks they've stopped

30% Have invested in pen testing services

Building a Resilient Cybersecurity Culture

Read the full report

www.isc2.org/research